

Internship <DevOps everywhere>

Description

Are you ready to automate impossible? We are and we are offering you joining us in amazing journey of DevOps automation. We believe we are the best industry experts and we are challenging status quo every day.

You will be tackling challenging areas of automation to put DevOps on the next level. We see you diving into areas of automation in configuration, deployment, testing, rollback of software and data management systems, analyze transformation and transition impact, barriers and enablers for the enterprises, and what predictions can be made about the breakthrough and adoption rate. Elaborate on the impact of fundamental changes on business processes from technology perspective.

Accenture will help you by providing access to subject matter experts, internal research done in this field, and contacts with our clients to conduct interviews and collect data.

We encourage candidates to develop their own research questions in the area of Cloud Migration, which meets both academic demands and Accenture interests.
